Fire, of undetermined origin, gutted the wing of the home of John Waybright, Freedom Twp., near Natural Dam, Friday night, causing damage estimated at $2,000.

Barlow and Taneytown fire departments responded to the alarm. Barlow Fire Chief Bernard V. Miller said the blaze was discovered by a grandson of Mr. Waybright, who had gone to his room on the second floor of the main portion of the brick farmhouse about 8 o'clock Friday night and detected the odor of smoke. Investigation disclosed the upper part of the story and a half wing of the house was ablaze. The family had to travel a mile to the nearest telephone to call firemen.

The main portion of the house was undamaged by the fire, with the three fire trucks present, two from Taneytown and one from Barlow, pouring hundreds of gallons of water over the main structure to prevent it from becoming ignited by the conflagration in the wing.

The wing had apparently been constructed after the main house was built, and it was fastened to a brick wall of the main structure, with no passageways through the brick wall. The wing could be

STUDENTS HEAR EX-PRISONER OF CHINESE REDS

"To love your enemies is the hallmark of love," Rev. John D. Hayes told students of Gettysburg College when he addressed the group during regular chapel period Friday morning in Brua Hall. Rev. Hayes, a Presbyterian minister on furlough from his station in China, arrived in the United States last September after ten months confinement in the Kweichow Red prison.

"As college students all of you are at one time or another faced with your own question of 'Will I make good?' This question is not peculiar to college life for you will find that many times during the remainder of your life you will ask yourselves the same thing. During the training and testing periods much of your answer will be found if you will just stop and sincerely realize how much God influences your daily life," he told the students.

"If you can fully realize this vast influence, your love for your fellowmen, whether enemies or friends, will bring you a satisfying peace and an understanding love of the world about you that will prove to be the answer to your making good," he said.

Dr. Langsam Gives Students Advice On Choosing Career

Nearly 2,000 juniors and seniors from Adams County and nearby high schools were advised Friday afternoon by Dr. Walter C. Langsam, Gettysburg College president, to consider spiritual as well as material returns offered when they choose a profession.

Dr. Langsam spoke at an assembly of students and consultants in the Eddie Plank Memorial gymnasium during a brief program that opened the ninth annual career conference conducted on the campus by the Adams County Schoolmen's Association.

After welcoming the students and professional folk "officially and personally," Dr. Langsam made a few brief remarks to the group: "The number of good careers is legion so the most important question is not 'Can I find a career?' but rather that of finding the way to choosing the right career."

"The right career is not necessarily the one that will bring in the most money. The right career for each of you is that in which you will find the greatest amount of personal satisfaction through the years. You will be happy if you choose a field in which you will love your job rather than the

Chinese Reds Confident Of Victory In Korea, One-Time Missionary-Prisoner States

"Chinese Communists have the feeling that once the Korean War is over and they and the North Koreans have won it, they will know the abundant life, but they believe the laying down of arms is only the initial step, that when we lay down our ideals and principles the final victory has been won."

This was one of the things which the American people should know, the Rev. John D. Hayes, a Presbyterian Missionary confined for ten months as a "spy," later released and now in the United States, declared in an interview Friday afternoon with a reporter for The Gettysburg Times.

"World Domination"

"The Chinese Reds are taught that in the course of time they may have to come over here and liberate us," he continued. "They believe that the Korean War is due to the Imperialistic powers. They expect the Imperialists to 'fall out' among themselves. Then the Communists can 'take over,' and the era of peace, order and prosperity will follow."

"When this happens, it will be for the good of China, first, but will

TO SHOW MOVIE STRESSING NEED TO TEST HERDS

The Adams County Brucellosis Committee will ask school authorities to show a movie "Triple Threat" to all high school students during the next two weeks to urge them to convey to their parents the need for testing of herds before the January, 1955, deadline. This decision was reached at a meeting Friday night in the office of County Agent M. T. Hartman, in the court house.

The committee hopes the students will "talk up" Bang's disease control at home and interest their fathers in attending a county-wide Brucellosis Control meeting to be held at the Court House March 30 at 8 p.m.

The color film shows how Brucella, or "Bang's disease," affects cows, and the milk from infected herds can cause undulant fever in humans.

Adams County dairy herd owners already testing for the disease will be asked to serve as committees to promote the testing set-up in their own townships, the county committee decided.

Dr. C. F. Manziano, federal veterinarian, will be in charge.

Mother And Four Children Perish In Blazing Home

SHARON, Pa., (AP)—An early morning fire apparently killed five members of a family and seriously burned a sixth today as it destroyed their home one mile west of nearby Sharpshoof.

Firemen recovered three bodies, tentatively identified as those of Mrs. Florence Hawks and her twin children, Terry and Gerry, 2. The firefighters were searching the ruins for two other children, David, 10, and Jerry 15, also feared burned to death.

The father, Thomas Hawks, rescued by neighbors, suffered burns on most of his body. His condition was reported serious at Sharon General Hospital.

Robert Phipps, next door neighbor, said he was awakened about 3 a.m. (EST) by a cracking, snapping noise and looked out the window to discover the Hawks house in flames. He, his wife and their son, Thomas, 17, rushed outdoors.

Old Vet Will Carry On For Lincoln

DULUTH, Minn. (AP)—Albert Woolson, last survivor of the 2-675,000 men who were the Union blue in the Civil War, vowed today he would carry on "the highest traditions of Abe Lincoln's forces until the very end." Woolson became 106 Feb. 11.

The spy former drummer boy picked up a morning newspaper early Friday to learn that his only other Union Army comrade—111-year-old James A. Hard—had died Thursday night at Rochester, N. Y.

Woolson was deeply moved and upset at Hard's death. In a clear, but shaking hand, he immediately penned a letter of condolence "to the immediate family and descendants of James Hard, Civil War comrade..."

Woolson brings up the rear guard of the armies of the North which engaged the grey-clad confederates in the War Between the States.

He is also the last of the Grand Army of the Republic (GAR), which once counted 408,489 members. The GAR held its final encampment in 1949, but will exist, under present plans, until Woolson dies.

He said today that, physically, he "still feels like a million."

Mr. Woolson attended the last Reunion of the Blue and Gray here in 1938.

FRATS LAUDED FOR SERVICE TO COLLEGES, MEN

"The American college fraternity is entitled to be fairly judged for its worth upon its sincere objectives, its long existence as a part of the college educational system and its ability to contribute to the moral and social upbuilding of the college students who constitute its membership," Dr. J. Fenton Daugherty, University of Delaware, told the more than 200 campus fraternity pledges at Gettysburg College and their guests when he addressed them at their annual dinner Friday evening in the Gettysburg Hotel. Dr. Daugherty, who is educational advisor for the National Interfraternity Council, substituted for National IFC President Robert C. Yeager was taken ill and unable to attend.

Tracing the growth of "secret brotherhoods" from the first known groups in Egypt, Judea and later Greece and other parts of the world, Dr. Daugherty told of their organization, speaking programs and philosophies. He continued with the history of fraternities in America, pointed out the values of honor fraternities and similar groups and described their activities during the past century and a quarter.

Part Of College System

"Fraternities are native to American academic soil. They are as much a part of the collegiate education system as the college itself," he continued. "In the modern college life in America, they are the expressions of something very real and very natural. The principle reasons why the fraternity system has advanced and holds a permanent place on the college campus are, first, man by nature is a gregarious animal. Human beings naturally seek the companionship of others. When students find themselves on a campus, participating in a common experience with others of their own age, it is natural they should seek the friendship of those they find to be particularly congenial."

"Social Experience"

"Second, the college or university by its nature emphasizes mental and intellectual training."

The request for a rule, made by Attorney S. M. Raffensperger for Frey, is on the fourth of a series of actions brought as a result of an auto accident February 1, 1951, on Chambersburg St. at Buford Ave.

KDR IS WINNER

The only serious skit in the program, the story dealt with a group of G.I.'s trapped by the enemy in a cave in Korea. Knowing that death was an almost sure thing for them the boys fell to reminiscing about incidents back home. Then the scene shifted to the opposite side of the stage where the incident was acted out by a second group. The close-out, after the boys had decided that God had forgotten them, showed a huge rock bursting into smoke, out of which rose a large silver cross as their salvation.

Group singing honors went to Phi Sigma Kappa, Phi Kappa Psi, Phi Delta Theta and Phi Kappa Rho in that order. The fraternities each sang two selections in the competition.

Al Marcks, president of the IFC, was master of ceremonies for the event and introduced President Walter C. Langsam, who welcomed the fraternities and their alumni on behalf of the college. While the judges were making their decisions Marcks also presented Arthur Handley, Baltimore, president of the Interfraternity Alumni Council, who introduced the large group of visiting dignitaries to the assemblage.

RED DICTATOR OF CZECHS DIES; WAS HE PURGED?

By RICHARD O'REGAN
VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Klement Gottwald, 56, the Communist dictator-president of Czechoslovakia, died in Prague today just five days after the funeral of his protector, Joseph Stalin.

The heavy-set peasant-born Moravian, who even looked like Stalin except for the mustache, was taken ill Thursday morning and died of what the Prague radio said was pneumonia and pleurisy, complicated by a chest hemorrhage. He had been in poor health for nearly a year. The broadcast hinted that the icy winds in Moscow, where Gottwald attended Stalin's funeral Monday, brought on his fatal illness.

Was He Purged?
But the sudden demise of the dictator who succeeded the late Eduard Benes as president in 1948 struck Western observers as a queer coincidence. There were some here who hinted that he might have been "purged" by the new regime in the Kremlin because it feared he might become a Tito.

Perhaps, significantly, the Prague radio followed up the announcement of the death by declaring, "those attempting to destroy the unity of Czechoslovakia will be mercilessly wiped out."

This was after the pattern of Moscow's radio appeals for unity around the new Soviet prime minister, Georgi Malenkov, after Stalin's death.

There was no hint as to who will succeed Gottwald. There is a possibility that the post of president may be abolished and ruling power placed in the hands of a group of likely contenders for the No. 1 spot.

Four Contenders
The four likeliest contenders for the throne are Antonin Zapotocky, the prime minister; Vilem Siroky, deputy prime minister; Karol Bacilek, national security minister, and Alexei Cepicka, Gottwald's son-in-law and defense minister.

Gottwald wielded broad powers in Prague. He was not only president, but boss of the Communist party and commander-in-chief of both the army and the secret police. No other functionary in a Communist satellite had as much power, at least in name.

Politically, the Jewish Red chief has been reported in disfavor with the Kremlin for more than a year because of the failure of Czechoslovakia to meet Russia's demands upon its industry.

Observers felt that he came out on top, however, last December when a rival, Communist party boss Rudolf Slansky—another Jew—and 10 other top leaders were hanged in Prague after a mass purge trial. It was said that Gottwald's friendship with Stalin had assured his top position, but the Russians still were not satisfied with the Czech administration.

Succeeded Benes
The thick-set, bushy-browed Gottwald, born a peasant, is a native of Moravia. He joined the Czech Communist party almost as soon as it was formed after World War I. During World War II, he lived in Moscow and became premier of Czechoslovakia when the Communists emerged from the 1946 elections as the nation's large political party.

In 1948, he forced President Eduard Benes to agree to the formation of a Communist-dominated government. Gottwald became president in June of that year and Benes died three months later.

SABRES USING SECRET RADAR SIGHTS SWEEP KOREAN SKIES

SEOUL (AP) Allied Sabre jet pilots knocked down three Communist MIG-15s today and the Air Force announced that the Korean War's top jet ace, Col. Royal N. Baker, would fly no more combat missions.

The Air Force said Sabre pilots, utilizing a secret radar gunsight, shot down three MIGs, probably destroyed two more, and damaged two additional red jets.

Has 125 Missions
A spokesman said Baker, of McKinney, Tex., decided himself not to fly any more. As commander of the 4th Fighter-Interceptor Group, he had completed more than 125 missions. The usual number of combat missions is 100.

The Air Force said its fighter-bombers swept almost to the Yalu River border of Manchuria during the day and plastered Communist supply and troop facilities.

Fighter-bombers scored a field day against Red rolling stock, hitting 67 boxcars in one strike. During the day, 90 boxcars were destroyed or damaged.

Hit Four Bridges
Despite closing skies in the afternoon, warplanes smacked the Reds from the battlefield north. Four rail bridges were claimed knocked out.

The Sabre pilots hit the MIGs in a series of swirling fights as high as 43,000 feet over MIG alley. The battle swept to the Yalu River as the Red pilots fled for safety.

The swirling air battles and fighter-bomber strikes climaxed the second straight day of relentless allied blows on Red Korea.

FRATS LAUDED

Book learning, however, is only part of the educational process. Fraternities, supplemental classroom instruction with social experience and prepare their members to take their places in the world as well-rounded men.

"Third, the symbolism of fraternities makes a universal appeal to the idealistic nature of youth. "Fourth, the intimate relationship formed during college days constitutes one of the most valuable things a man can possess and often ripen into lifelong friendships of social and sometimes material benefit."

"Fifth, college administrators have recognized that the fraternity serves as a useful adjunct to college discipline and organization."

Had Envious Enemies
"Like all great movements, the fraternity system idea has had its enemies principally composed of those who envy its development and appeal to American youth, oppose its ideals and aims, and by their own subversive activities wish to destroy it. These attacks have been made through the years and at this date continue in one form or another their efforts to undermine the beliefs of students and college administrators in the merit and value of this unique institution."

"Snobbishness has been the harshest indictment of fraternities and especially sororities. Sometimes it has been justified. The fraternity has not always been able to initiate all of the incoming students. Necessarily, by virtue of the honor of membership in a fraternity, they were heartache and disappointment among those not invited to become members. This is almost always an individual matter when the question is carefully and fairly and fairly investigated and the responsibility fixed. The charge of snobbishness in individual chapters today is not justified."

"Yours is a precious heritage. Regard it as a special privilege. Regard it as a special opportunity for service. Make it a service to your brothers, your college and to society in general."

Two hundred ten attended the dinner.

STUDENTS HEAR

during the time of his missionary work, Rev. Hayes told of a young girl student whose father had been executed by the Communists in China because he had been a minor official in Western China. The daughter had become so bitter and confused by the ordeals of trial and the execution that "there was nothing to say except to suggest that we pray. I said my prayer first," Rev. Hayes related, "and then I asked if she cared to follow me. She started first to pray for peace in the country, for protection of her family and friends, and, after pausing a little, she asked God to forgive her father's executioners and to give them a greater sense of justice in their courts. I know this incident was one of the greatest demonstrations of the tremendous power of prayer I shall ever see. In the space of a few short seconds, this girl had found her answer to will I make good?"

Rev. Hayes was introduced by Rev. Clyde R. Brown, pastor of the Gettysburg Presbyterian Church, who extended an invitation to the students to hear the speaker this evening at the church. Music for the service was furnished by the chapel choir. Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Bartholmew sang a duet, with Eugene Gardner at the organ.

TEN YEARS AGO

Maroons Spank William Penn: An old saying "What happens twice will happen thrice" held up Friday night when Coach George Forney's Gettysburg high school Maroons won their third straight District 3 PIAA basketball championship by "snowing under" William Penn high, of Harrisburg, before an overflow crowd of approximately 1,000 fans on the York high court, 44-32.

Captain Ross Sachs, the Maroons' brilliant guard, won himself more acclaim with a dazzling all-around performance. He was ably assisted by his team-mates all of whom played stellar ball.

The Maroons will now clash with Hazleton high.

As far as could be learned, no other team ever won the title three times in succession.

Sharing scoring honors with Sachs, who bagged 14 tallies, was "Bud" Boehner who connected for 9 tallies while holding his opponent to a single goal. George Fair came through with seven tallies.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Alfred S. Lawrence, rector of the Episcopal Church at Chapel Hill, assisted by Lt. Eric Arendt, a Navy chaplain.

Attending the bride was Miss Martha Sanford as maid of honor. Miss Sarah Summerlin also attended the bride.

The best man was Lt. Frank Gillespie, Chapel Hill.

Lt. Bream enlisted last March in the Naval Pre-Flight program.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Summerlin, Chapel Hill.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

SONG

While we've life and friendships true
How can care destroy us?
While we've strength our tasks to do,
Why should doubts annoy us?

You and I have laughed before,
We may laugh tomorrow;
Why should we with frowns deplore
Troubles we must borrow?

'Tis not winter all the year;
Summer days are sunny.
There are countless pleasures here
Never bought with money.

Blended with the sorrows deep
Are the pleasures many,
And the richest joys we keep
Seldom cost a penny.

Life is more than gold or fame;
It is countless small things.
Who a few good friends can claim
Has the best of all things.

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SPREAD YOUR BLESSINGS

Most of us are quite selfish about our blessings. We like to hoard them. But, as a matter of fact, they are actually always itching to get out and away, so as to initiate blessings in people who have grown so accustomed to them that they are often tagged as mere commonplace.

All of us are better off than we think. Of course we are called upon to remain human beings and to bear our burdens, sorrows and difficulties with good grace, but there is no reason why we should ever get into the rut of sluggish inappreciation. It would help us to even count our blessings from time to time, just to prove to ourselves that we have something within us that warms the heart, and which radiates that warmth.

A healthy, joyful person, specializing in gaiety of vision and outlook, affects all with whom that person contacts. Blessings are like that. When they are spread out they inspire other people to display their own. And so there is created an atmosphere to blessings, filling the air like perfume.

When we get careless with our blessings they begin to fade away and we wonder why we become moody. It's because we then get forgetful and lose hold upon the happiness that belongs to us as a right. It is the Heavenly Father to whom we owe all our blessings. To Him we sing our doxology, for He inspires every joy and every blessing that is ours.

People who are full of blessings are full of hope, cheer and courage. You don't have to figure out why they are both healthy and happy. Such people are akin to everything in the universe. They are children to the morning sunlight, and sensitive to the simplest beauty that colors the earth. Spread your blessings and they will keep running back to you, to be freshly blessed!

Crowded Red Square After Stalin Funeral

3 YOUNG RED CZECHS FLY TO BRITISH ZONE

GRAZ, Austria (P)—Three youthful members of Communist Czechoslovakia's air force fled to Austria Friday in a World War II German aircraft and asked for political asylum.

The three fully-uniformed air-borne—landed on a runway used by British military planes at Thalerhof Airport on the outskirts of Graz, in the British occupation zone.

Grinning and evidently pleased with their early morning flight of 115 miles from the Czech city of Bratislava, the three asked British soldiers who immediately surrounded their plane: "Is this Graz?"

Told that it was, they asked for asylum. They were taken into custody by British military authorities. Their aircraft—a German Arado 96 used as a training plane for fighter pilots—was taxied by British airmen into a closed hangar and placed under guard.

The three airmen were tentatively identified by Austrian police as Lt. Vladimir Krman, 24; Sgt. Gustav Molnar, 26, and Sgt. Josef Fleischhacker, 25.

They said they left a Czech air force training school at Plestany, near Bratislava, early Friday morning. In bright, cold, sunny weather, they flew across the Russian occupation zone of Austria, passed near a Soviet jet fighter base at Wiener Neustadt, and then crossed into the British zone. They apparently saw no Russian planes.

17 Dead In Wake Of Tornadoes In Midwest

HASKELL, Tex. (P)—The death count stood at 17 today after rampaging, marauding tornadoes struck towns in a zig-zag pattern across Central West Texas and Oklahoma.

Texas counted 14 of the dead in the Friday-the-13th storms.

An undetermined number of persons were injured and damage was expected to run into the millions of dollars.

3 Texas Towns Hit

Three small Texas towns and their farm areas—Jud, O'Brien and Knox City—bore the brunt of the wild winds. A woman was killed at Bradley, Okla., as a twister smashed southeastward across that state, taking heavy blows at Rush Springs, Lawton, Ft. Sill and Dickson, where two other persons died.

A fourth community in Texas, Rochester, received minor damage from the tornado. Hail as big as golf balls lashed Lawton, Okla., and Ft. Sill with damage estimated at more than a million dollars.

Warned By Weather Bureau

The Weather Bureau would not say that the Oklahoma and Texas twisters were the same, but their directions and time indicated they were spawned of the same deadly weather.

Jud, Tex., was the first hit. Then the black funnel smashed near O'Brien, Rochester and finally Knox City. A little later, Oklahoma residents scurried for shelter from the storm.

Warnings from the Weather Bureau that thunderstorm activity might breed tornadoes and heavy winds kept residents of North and

No Agreement On 2-Year Oil Dispute

WASHINGTON (P)—British-Iranian negotiations to settle their two-year-old dispute over Iranian oil nationalization have virtually collapsed, diplomatic officials reported today.

Prime Minister Mossadeq of Iran is expected shortly to reject the settlement proposals presented him Feb. 20 by Prime Minister Churchill's government.

Authorities said Mossadeq's behavior is so unpredictable that no one can say confidently that he will reject the British proposals. However, all available information in Washington leaves no reasonable doubt that he has decided on such action.

FULBRIGHT ASKS COLLEAGUES TO "OKAY" BOHLEN

WASHINGTON (P)—A Democratic senator appealed to his Republican colleagues today to support President Eisenhower's policies and nominations "for the good of the country."

Sen. Fulbright of Arkansas made the statement in an interview as Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) joined the ranks of Senate Republicans who oppose the nomination of Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen to be ambassador to Moscow.

The opposition to Eisenhower's selection of Bohlen expressed doubt that there are enough votes to block Bohlen's confirmation. They apparently were concentrating on trying to force its withdrawal.

Wants More Facts

McCarthy was reported concentrating his efforts on building up sufficient opposition to do that.

Democrats support the nomination almost unanimously, according to Sen. Sparkman of Alabama, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.), who with Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) kept the Foreign Relations Committee from voting on Bohlen last Tuesday, said he is still "trying to get the facts" on the nominee's part in the wartime conference at Yalta.

Bohlen served there as Russian language interpreter for the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Ferguson lost one round of ammunition yesterday when James C. Grew, former under secretary of state, wrote him a letter endorsing Bohlen.

Grew's name came into the inquiry in connection with a notation in the diaries of the late James V. Forrestal, one-time secretary of the Navy and later secretary of defense.

Forrestal wrote that Grew had told him prior to the Potsdam conference he feared some advisers—Bohlen among them—might attempt to dissuade former President Truman from offering peace terms that might bring Japan's surrender before Russia could get into the Pacific war.

Grew said he had no recollection of even mentioning Bohlen's name in his conversation with Forrestal on that subject, and added, "I don't think I knew how Bohlen stood on it." Grew said he felt Forrestal threw in Bohlen's name as among those accompanying Truman to Potsdam.

56TH RUSSIAN VETO BLOCKS ELECTION IN U. N.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (P)—A Soviet veto by representatives of the new Malenkov regime threw U.N. delegates once again today into a wide-open scramble for a successor to Trygve Lie as secretary general of the United Nations.

The Russians cast their 56th veto in the 11-nation Security Council last night to wash out a powerful nine-vote majority for Canada's Lester B. Pearson. The Canadian foreign secretary, president of the U.N. Assembly, was backed by Britain and France.

Muster 5 Votes

The United States managed to muster only five votes—less than a majority—for its candidate, Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines. The lack of a majority made it unnecessary for the Russians to use the veto in his case, as they had threatened to do.

Russia's candidate, Polish Foreign Minister Stanislaw Skrzyszewski, got only one vote—from the Russians. There were three votes against him and seven abstentions.

After four hours of wrangling in the oak-paneled conference room, council members decided to adjourn attempts to find a generally acceptable candidate until next Thursday.

Had it not been for the Russian veto, Pearson's nine votes would have put him in the job that pays $40,000 a year plus $15,000 for housing and other expenses.

The Russians have declared Skrzyszewski is their only candidate and have refused to say whether any of the others named thus far would be acceptable when their man goes down to his certain defeat.

But so vehement is the Soviet distaste for Lie, who has declared he will stay on until a successor is chosen, that most delegates feel certain the Russians finally will come to some agreement.

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (P)—The block - square Lehman Industrial Building was destroyed by fire today, its walls collapsing onto a nearby furniture warehouse, a viaduct and two parked vehicles.

Nine families were evacuated from nearby dwellings as a precaution and given temporary shelter in the Jersey City Medical Center, located a few blocks away.

There were no reports of any casualties.

Shift Of Boston Braves To Milwaukee And St. Louis Browns To Baltimore May Come Monday

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Major league baseball's first franchise shift in 50 years—the transfer of the St. Louis Browns to Baltimore—is expected to receive the formal approval of the American League owners when they meet at Belaire, Fla., Monday.

And on the same day, at Tampa, the National League owners will listen to Lou Perini's reasons for wanting to move the Braves to Milwaukee.

It is in the realm of possibility that the transfer of both clubs—unprecedented in major league history—will take place on the same day.

Browns Most Likely
The Browns' transfer, however, seems more probable since a source high in baseball said last night American League owners will vote unanimously for the transfer contingent on the ironing out of a few details.

Then too, American League rules call for only a three-fourths vote for approval. That means Bill Veeck, owner of the Browns, needs only five other club owners to agree with him. The National League, however, requires unanimous approval for shifting of a franchise.

Before the Browns can move to Baltimore, consent will be needed from the International League, the matter of radio and television rights will need to be settled to the satisfaction of the Washington Senators and Veeck will have to show he has made arrangements to play in the Baltimore city-owned stadium.

Veeck is scheduled to meet with city officials in Baltimore today and the International League executives have been called to a conference in Clearwater Monday by President Frank Shaughnessy.

Actually, the confab gets under way today with George Trautman, president of the minor leagues, conferring with Shaughnessy and Bruce Dudley, head of the American Association, at Deland, Fla. Dudley's interest in the matter is because Milwaukee is a member of the American Association.

Some reports have both Milwaukee and Baltimore moving to Toledo, which dropped out of the AA last season when the franchise was moved to Charleston, W. Va. Others have Milwaukee going into Toledo and Jack Dunn taking his Baltimore Orioles to either Quebec, Canada; Hartford, Conn.; or Providence, R. I.

The proposed transfer of the Browns and Braves are not related. It just happens that Veeck and Perini, at the same time, are looking for sites where their franchises will be more profitable. The Braves are believed to have lost around a half-million dollars last year when the attendance fell off to 281,000.

MARTINEZ IS UPSET BY VEJAR

NEW YORK (AP)—A return fight in May between Chico Vejar and Vince Martinez was in the works today following Vejar's upset victory over the Paterson (N.J.) puncher in one of the most exciting brawls hereabouts in months.

The swarthy, 21-year-old Vejar, a 17 to 5 underdog, crowded his handsome, 23-year-old rival all the way and wore him down with a switching body and head attack. The body blows took the starch out of Martinez and he faded in the final three rounds, all won by Chico.

That gave Chico the unanimous decision last night in a slashing ten rounder that had the delighted crowd of 11,184 whooping and hollering all the way.

All three officials, referee Al Berl and Judges Charley Shortell and Harold Barnes, had the same score, 5-4-1 in rounds for Vejar. The AP scorecard had Vejar in front, 6-3-1.

With radio-TV money thrown in, each boy collected about $12,000. There will be more the next time.

Finish Cage Game With Four Players

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Defending champion Springfield (Mo.) State and Hamline University of St. Paul met tonight for the National Inter-collegiate (NAIA) Basketball championship.

Both finalists got there the hard way. Springfield dumped Indiana State of Terre Haute, 84-78, last night with only four players in its lineup at the finish.

Hamline, which has won three of the small college tournaments representing teams from every section of the country, won its semi-final match, 73-71, over East Texas State of Commerce.

Lovett, Dunn To Lead Diplomats

LANCASTER, Pa. March 14 — Carson L. (Gus) Lovett, of York, and Richard M. Dunn, of Stevens Point, Wis., have been elected co-captains of next year's Franklin and Marshall College basketball team, it was announced by Coach Woody Sponaugle.

Lovett and Dunn are both veteran letter-men of the last two seasons, and will be seniors next year.

Lovett, the 6.7 center, established a new F&M scoring mark this winter of 441 point in 19 games. He also had been among the leaders in field goal percentages.

STATE FIRST IN WRESTLING TIF

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)—The Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Championships wind up today with Penn State in a position to win its third straight title.

The Nittany Lions were in first place after the first two rounds yesterday with nine points and had five team members get in the semi-final round.

Lehigh, tied for second with five points, was a strong contender, also with five men surviving the first two rounds. Army scored five points also, and had four semi-finalists. Cornell had four survive the two early rounds and scored as many points.

Penn State's Bob Homan, defending champion in the 123-pound class, was upset 8-5 in the quarter final by Art Helf of Franklin and Marshall. The Nittany Lions' other two defending titlists, Dick and Joe Lemyre in the 130 and 167 pound divisions, pinned their opponents handsily to gain the semifinal round.

SETON HALL FAVORED

NEW YORK (AP)—The championship game of the 16th National Invitation Tournament tonight between Seton Hall and St. John's may well be decided by what happens under the baskets rather than by the ball passing through the baskets.

Seton Hall is favored by six points with the Pirates' All-American center 6-1 Walt Dukes, the key man. But St. John's has scored three upsets in succession.

The pilot was identified as Flying Officer C. G. Tucker. Fragments from the wrecked plane killed Annelore Dalbrun, 9, a playmate, Heide Menz, 10, was seriously injured.

NCAA FAVORITES LINING UP FOR FINAL ROUNDS

By ORLO ROBERTSON

Associated Press Sports Writer
With a possible exception or two, the favorites lined up today for the final round in the four regional tournaments of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Basketball championship.

Here is how they'll square off tonight in the regional finals with the winners earning the right to move on to Kansas City for the final rounds next Tuesday and Wednesday.

At Raleigh, N. C.—Louisiana champion, vs. Holy Cross, New England representative.

Holy Cross beats Wake Forest at Chicago—Indiana, king of the Big Ten, vs. Notre Dame, last survivor of the Midwest independents. At Manhattan, Kan.—Kansas, defending titlist and Big Seven champion, vs. Oklahoma Aggies, Missouri Valley Conference winners.

At Corvallis, Ore.—Washington, Pacific Coast champions, vs. Santa Clara, an at-large representative.

The only games that resembled upsets last night were Holy Cross' 79-71 conquest of Wake Forest, winner of the Southern Conference tournament, and Santa Clara's 67-52 defeat of Wyoming of the Skyline Conference.

Lebanon Valley Bows
Lebanon Valley, sentimental favorite by reason of its size, bowed to LSU, 89-76.

Indiana was forced to go all out before edging De Paul, 82-80 and Notre Dame had to break out with a 17-point siege in the last five minutes to eliminate Pennsylvania and All-America Ernie Beck, 69-57.

Kansas stunned Oklahoma City aside, 73-65, after Oklahoma A&M had closed fast for a 71-54 decision over Texas Christian.

Out on the West Coast, All-America Bob Houbregs and his Washington teammates were too much for All-America Johnny O'Brien and his Seattle mates, winning 92-70 for a new NCAA team scoring record.

Milwaukee Boxing Show Is Cancelled

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A boxing show scheduled for Monday night has been cancelled by the Wisconsin Boxing Club because matchmaker Ben Barwick reported that Rocky Jones of Chester, Pa., a substitute for Wes Bascom, has refused to go through with the bout.

Jones was signed when Dan Buceroni of Philadelphia withdrew from a scheduled 10 round bout with Bascom.

Barwick said he would file claims with the National Boxing Association against both Buceroni and Jones to compensate the local boxing club for expenses incurred in attempting to arrange the show. If either fighter refused to pay, their suspension will be sought, Barwick added.

Bascom is ranked No. 9 and Jones No. 8 in the light heavyweight division by Ring magazine.

Hornets Defeated In Hockey Battle

By The Associated Press
Syracuse's chances of landing third place for the American Hockey League playoffs were a little brighter today but Pittsburgh's hopes of catching the circuit leading Cleveland Barons were dimmer.

The Warriors shutout the Pittsburgh Hornets, 1-0, last night in the only league game to move four points in front of the fourth place Hershey Bears. The setback kept the Hornets from closing the five-point margin separating them from the Barons.

The lone goal of the game came in the first period by Harry Pidhisky on an assist from Kelly Burnett.

Highly Touted Phillies Trail Grapefruit League

By RIP WATSON

Associated Press Sports Writer
What's wrong with the Philadelphia Phillies? Touted in some quarters as a dark horse candidate for the 1953 National League pennant, the Phils currently are dead last in the Grapefruit League.

The 3-2 loss to the Washington defeat in as many games for Philadelphia. The Phillies got off ahead, but when it was over they had lost again as Wayne Terwilliger singled home Ken Wood from second base in the eighth inning with the winning run.

Rookie outfielder Rip Repulski personally snapped the St. Louis Cardinals' five-game losing streak when he blasted a home run in the last of the 10th inning to give the Redbirds a 1-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. Jack Grimman, one of the Cards' fine young pitching prospects, received credit for the victory. Joining him in the shutout were Harvey Haddix and veteran Cliff Chambers.

Dodgers Lead Gang
Who's leading the parade after the first week of spring training games? Why, the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Brooks even extended their mastery to the New York Yankees last night. Roy Campanella slashed a single to score Duke Snider with the run that gave the Dodgers a 5-4 victory and a nifty 6-1 record thus far.

Indians, Giants Bow
The White Sox reached that mark yesterday as a veteran Tommy Byrne and rookie Bob Keegan combined to pitch a four-hit, 11-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

The Giants bowed to the Chicago Cubs, 4-3.

The Boston Braves and Philadelphia Athletics, both idle yesterday, have 3-3 records, while the Indians, Cubs and Reds are 3-4.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, who broke even in two games with the Athletics, have an overall record of 4-3, playing the balance of their games against Cuban teams at their Havana base. The Pirates last night downed the Cuban Stars, 7-5.

The St. Louis Browns had to go 13 innings to beat San Francisco of the Pacific Coast League, 5-3, in a night game at San Francisco. The Browns have a 5-2 record.

DUTCHMEN ARE DEFEATED BY LSU 89-76

RALEIGH (AP)—Once-beaten Louisiana State goes against Holy Cross tonight in the NCAA Eastern Regional Basketball playoffs for the right to compete in the national finals at Kansas City Tuesday and Wednesday.

Wake Forest, Southern Conference champion, and Lebanon Valley meet in a consolation game at 7:30 (EST) with the regional title game at 9:30.

LSU, seventh-ranked team in the Associated Press poll, turned back a scrappy Lebanon Valley team, 89-76, and Holy Cross fought off a late rally by Wake Forest to win, 79-71 in last night's semi-finals. LSU's 89 points set a new national NCAA tournament scoring record. The old mark of 87 was set by North Carolina State when the Wolfpack defeated Holy Cross, 87-63, in 1950.

Palazzi Tops Scores
Forward Togo Palazzi of Holy Cross took the night's scoring honors by hanging up 32 to run his total for the season to 585, a new Holy Cross record. The previous one season mark of 582 was held by Bob Cousy.

LSU's superior height and reserve power were down the race horse Lebanon Valley team, which used only one substitute. After trailing by 49-43 at half time, the battling Pennsylvania team fought back to narrow the margin to two points early in the closing period, but the great shooting of Center Bob Pettit proved the difference in the teams. He tallied 28 points, five more than teammate Norman Magee who fouled out early in the final period.

Six Cage Titles Decided Friday; Only One Remains

By RICHARD L. GRAVES
HARRISBURG (AP)—All but one PIAA Class A District basketball championships were in the record books today with six titles decided last night in the monthlong tourney.

Champion Gymnast Is Leading Tourney

WEST POINT, N. Y. (AP)—Penn State's Jean Cronstead, defending champion in the All-Around competition, gained an early lead in his special last night as the 26th annual individual championship of the Eastern Intercollegiate Gymnastic League got under way.

A native of Finland, Cronstead registered a total of 823 points in the three events. An outstanding performance in the free exercise, an event in which he holds the N. A. A. U. championship nabbed him to set the pace.

Penn State's Amanuel Procopio, third entry in the All-Around, remained in contention with an upset victory on the still rings. His 734 for the evening gave him an outside chance to garner a medal.

Sixty five entries representing Penn State, Syracuse, Temple, Navy and Army are vying for individual titles in the seven events.

Sharon Beats Farrell
Sharon won the WPIAL title and the District 7 championship by turning back Ford City, 49-41, to replace Farrell, its neighboring rival, in the title notch.

The new champion draws a bye in interdistrict competition, but will meet the winner of the Berlin-Johnstown interdistrict duel in regional playoffs.

In District 2 Old Forge clinched the cap with a stunning 58-47 victory over Plymouth (Wyoming Valley), 58-47.

Johnstown grabbed the District 6 title by trouncing Hollidaysburg (Central Mountain) by 59-48. The winner will meet Berlin, which won the District 5 title last Thursday from Somerset, next Wednesday in an interdistrict battle.

Cashing in on a fast break advantage, Allentown soared to a 78-57 win over Slatingsburg (Lehigh Valley) to win the title in District 11.

The Canaries draw a bye in Eastern Regional semi-finals. They will meet the victor of the Old Forge-Coal Twp. clash.

Bradford Topples Clearfield
Meanwhile, a fighting Bradford quintet toppled Clearfield, 65-60, to win honors in District 9. The Bradford squad faces Westinghouse, repeater District 8 champion Monday in an interdistrict contest.

The lineup of district winners entered in Class B championship playoffs was complete today, with two exceptions.

The two remaining championship berths belong to District 3 and 6. They will be decided Tuesday. District 8 (Pittsburgh) does not have Class B play.

Class B interdistrict games are set for early next week with the first involving Forbes (Dist. 5) and Irwin (Dist. 7) Monday at McKeesport. The date and site of the games haven't been settled. The first two games must be played Monday according to PIAA regulations.

The District 9-10 winner bypasses the preliminary Western regional and goes directly into the regional final. It is possible that contest may be put off until Tuesday or Wednesday.

F. CHESTERMAN NOT TO TESTIFY AT HEARINGS

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Legislature's Economy Committee faced the job today of digging through 100 million dollars of government cost-cutting proposals without aid at public hearings of the Chesterman Committee.

Francis J. Chesterman, chairman of the group which recommended a broad reorganization of state agencies, yesterday declined an invitation to appear at public hearings to blueprint its proposals.

Gov. John S. Fine named the Chesterman Committee to make a detailed study of state agencies. The assembly, after getting the group's bulky report, set up a 30-member House-Senate committee to hold public hearings on the proposal, many of them controversial.

Chesterman, after a six-hour conference with top members of the Assembly committee considering the economy report, said he "felt that no useful purpose could be served by attending the hearings."

Chesterman's position brought this comment from Rep. Adam T. Bower (R-Northumberland), co-chairman of the Assembly economy committee looking into the Chesterman reports:

Could Prolong Hearings
"Without a breakdown on how the Chesterman Committee arrived at its various recommendations, these hearings could continue for a year."

Chesterman said in his statement that the survey committee recommendations would ultimately save the state 100 million dollars a biennium. He said 20 millions in savings were contemplated for the 1953-55 biennium and that an additional $14,500,000 could be saved through administrative action.

Chesterman said the survey committee recommendations are "sound and attainable, and stressed the need to consider the report in its entirety, rather than to consider specific recommendations without regard to their place in the overall plan."

The lawmakers had invited Chesterman, retired president of the Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania to discuss details of how his committee arrived at its various recommendations. They also wanted Chesterman, or one of his committee members, to be present at the series of public hearings airing the report.

MAN WANTED FOR U. N. POST; $40,000 A YEAR

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Know anybody who wants a job paying $40,000 per year, tax free? If that isn't enough, tell him there's a fine mansion, complete with staff, and a limousine to make it more attractive.

Such a fellow should apply at the United Nations to Prof. Ahmed S. Bokhari, ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary from Pakistan, who currently is trying to find the right man for the place.

But warn your friend that it's not a soft snap. Before he gets the post, plus the easy chair and sky-scraper view that goes with it, he has to convince such people as Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. of the United States, Valerian A. Zorin of the Soviet Union, Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb and some others that he is the right buy to be secretary general of the United Nations.

Three Are Mentioned
Bokhari, as president of the U. N. Security Council, the group that does the picking of Trygve Lie's successor, ran a preliminary test the other day. Three candidates were trotted out. Lodge put up Gen. Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines who makes no secret that he would like the job. Zorin, surprising one, advanced Stanislaw Skrzyszewski, foreign minister of Poland. He hasn't the ghost of a chance at the job, even if it paid off in slayoffs.

Then a Dane, William Borberg, put up a man known to have the backing of Jebb and France's Henri Hoppenot. Their candidate is Lester B. Pearson, Canadian foreign secretary and president of the U. N. Assembly, who, incidentally got away from it all yesterday by going home to Ottawa for the week end.

That's just the beginning. Later today, the board of directors called the Security Council—11 persons who have not agreed on anything in years—meets again for another hush-hush try.

The gossip is that there may be some votes, with none of the three front runners getting the nod. There will have to be other meetings.

GRANTS TV CHANNEL

The television application granted involved the Chambersburg Broadcasting Co., of Chambersburg, Pa., for operation on Channel 46.

NOTES ON FORSYTHIA CULTURE

Unfortunately a person who writes about ornamental plants must often violate certain rules of proper "timing" in order to get across the facts he desires to stress. For example, forsythias should be planted after the plants are dormant in the fall. But because this excellent shrub comes into its full beauty of bloom in late winter and early spring, discussions of cultural methods at this season are far more impressive than they would have been when the plant was leafless and dormant.

Forsythias merit wider use. Not only do they come into welcome flower when their ornamentation is most appreciated and long before most other wider grown shrubs show their worth, but this stranger from the Orient is almost wholly immune to diseases and no reports have ever been received of its being attacked by insects. Here, therefore, is a tremendous advantage in addition to the wonderful deluge of gold with which the shrubs are decked to bring color to the otherwise drab surroundings after but a few days of mild weather as winter is departing.

The main motive for discussion forsythia culture now lies in two phases of the subject: First, growers unacquainted with the maximum beauty of this plant may more fully appraise its value by closer observation of it when it is in full bloom; second, particularly attractive varieties may easily be propagated with softwood or hardwood cutting obtained when the shrub is pruned soon after the flowering season ends.

On this point the editor commends a practice reported by a shrub-loving friend. Whenever this man sees an unusually attractive or new sort of forsythia in bloom, he contacts the owner, acquaintance or stranger, and asks for cuttings when pruning is done later. To date, he reports, nobody has refused his request and he now has a wonderful assortment of forsythias.

Many specimens of this shrub are miserable in appearance because they are not pruned. First, the plants are often shunted to unfriendly locations because forsythias do quite well even on the north sides of buildings or beneath heavy trees. The plant seldom knows the pruning shears. But to bring out their beauties, forsythias should be carefully pruned soon after their flowers fade. Cutting back the longer laterals, thinning, removing defective and dead woods, and other normal pruning operations promote much new wood on which the next year's flowers will be borne. And all these vigorous prunings may be utilized for growing additional plants.

Softwood or hardwood cuttings are easily rooted in moist sand or vermiculite under glass. Last spring the editor experimented with softwood forsythia cuttings planted in ordinary garden soil beneath upturned glass jars and averaged above 80 per cent survivals. Few failures will occur in sand or vermiculite. The rooted plants may be moved to their permanent growing places in late fall.

Forsythias make excellent border hedges and low screens. They grow for perennials and annuals. Because their foliage remains green until frosts come, without disease or insect ravages over summer, they deserve wider use in hedge and border roles.

All cultural questions will be gladly answered. Please enclose a stamped, addressed envelope when writing the editor about this and other lawn and garden matters.

STARTING ONIONS IN SPRING
Onion sets and "multipliers" should be planted in late October or early November in this latitude

Condemned Man Is Given 7th Respite

HARRISBURG (AP)—The execution of Ollie Carey, 43, Montgomery County, set for Monday at the Rockview State Prison, was postponed indefinitely Friday by Gov. John S. Fine.

The governor issued the seventh respite to Carey because an appeal still is pending before the U. S. Supreme Court. He did not fix a new date for the execution.

to produce early green onions. But, if this work was neglected or postponed last fall, gardeners may attend to it within the next two weeks or as soon as soils can be prepared. Of course, green onions will reach edible size from three to four weeks later than those from fall-planting operations.

Because many gardeners, especially beginners, are somewhat confused in onion nomenclature, definitions of terms here may prove helpful. An onion "set" is actually a small, stunted onion bulb, usually grown from seed and stunted purposely by crowding the plants. It is produced solely for planting purposes. A "multiplier" is a large bulb intended chiefly for planting but which may be eaten as any other matured onion. It consists of numerous sections and when it is planted it produces a clump of several green stalks. If it's allowed to mature it will produce a compact group of sets. A multiplier is not an ordinary large onion; it is a special variety.

In recent years commercial gardeners are growing and selling onion "plants," similar to tomato, cabbage and other vegetable seedlings for transplanting. Most of these originate in the South and are sold in northern markets any time after the middle of March. They may be set out as early as the plants are available. It is seldom advisable for home gardeners to grow onions from seed for two reasons: First, seed cannot be planted until the ground begins to warm up and this production is late. Second, growing either green or mature onions from sets, multipliers or plants is so simple, inexpensive and practicable that home gardeners need seek no better method. In all cases onions not eaten or sold as green stalks may be left to mature bulbs for fall storage for all-winter use.

Thrips may be the only insect pest to attack onions. It is a tiny yellow insect about one-twenty-fifth of an inch in length. It usually feeds out of sight beneath the leaf sheath, although it is occasionally seen on the green tips. Most state and federal literature recommends use of DDT to control this invader but the editor warns reader vigorously against this dangerous poison. But rather as soon as whitish blotches are seen on the leaves or when the leaf tips wither and turn brown, spray liberally with Black Leaf 40 in soapy water.

If a small white maggot infests onion bulbs during the growing season, combat it with the calomel treatment advised for controlling the cabbage root maggot. For this purpose dissolve calomel at the rate of one-tenth ounce to each gallon of the solution to 35 or 40 feet of row.

Set multipliers or sets upright and firm the soil around them, allowing the tip to protrude through the soil. Space sets two to three inches apart and multipliers about four inches.

Onions will not thrive in hard or shallow soils. Well rotted and pulverized manure turned under and worked through the soil is beneficial. Rotted compost used in a similar role will help lighten heavier loams for onions. One or more side dressings with nitrate of soda after tops are three to five inches high will greatly stimulate backward plants.

One reason some people never like to park is because the police might think it's a collision.

Profit By New Models

One of the advantages the experienced motorist has found in viewing carefully all the new cars each year is the opportunity to find out more about his own car. There is a very practical side to considering what the car manufacturers rate as improvements because these often serve as explanations for difficulties that may be showing up in older models. Quite typical is the case of a change in the seal for the rear main motor bearing. Inefficiency of former seals may be the reason for high oil consumption. Change to a larger tire size ought to be a tip-off that the older models would ride better with a similar revision.

This year in particular many will note the return to use of the straight-through type of muffler and will probably conclude that such a revision would help them get better performance from their cars. Reverse flow mufflers were considered to be necessary to check exhaust vibrations, especially with automatic transmissions, but if power is all you are interested in any reduction in unnecessary back pressure may be the answer.

One owner who has been having trouble with the gas tank backing up when being refilled is especially interested in the new vent tube seen in the current model. It gave him an idea.

The Motor Primer
The term "dash pot" is one that bothers a lot of people who try to master the modern carburetor yet it is merely the name given to that feature which serves to prevent the engine from stalling when the driver takes his foot off the accelerator pedal suddenly. It is used with automatic transmissions and torque converters. All the dash pot does is slow down the throttle's closing.

No Gain In Speed
Few drivers realize it but one reason so many troubles develop during high speed, or right after it, is because speed plays havoc with the pumps which are essential to the engine's performance. Speed results in excessive flexing of the fuel pump's diaphragm. Often the water pump is in need of lubricant at the very time when it is pressed into maximum service. This naturally wears its bushings, but in addition it may suck air which causes rusting and losses out the overflow. At speed there is more risk of the oil pump sucking sludge through its intake screen.

Mechanic Joe peaking
"I've said it many times before but it can never be repeated too often that automobiles are unusual in the way one part affects another, for good or bad. Just the other day we had a case of poor water circulation without any evidence of restriction in the radiator or the hissing or the cylinder block. We were about ready to rebuild the water pump when someone happened to notice that the fan did not spin freely. Taking the fan down we found that it had a bad bearing. The effect of all this was to slow down the water pump."

Keeping You Posted
For one reason or another cars continue to be increasingly complicated. Some observers wonder where it will end. Typical is the situation on one of the current maker in which a different shape used for the gas tank of one of the models calls for a difference in the units for tank and dash gauges. Actually they are reversed so far as tank coil resistance is concerned. Hence if a mechanic is trouble-shooting with a spare tank unit for one of the other models, or models of the previous series, the dash unit would read "empty" when the float arm is up.

What Comes Naturally
Why an engine often bucks a bit when the throttle is closed at a moderate speed of about 20 mph in high gear need not be a mystery. The engine then runs on its idling mixture which may be much too rich for so little power requirement. Another possibility is that the rings are worn and some of the oil that sucks up past them gets on one or two of the spark plugs. Poor valving is always under suspicion when the car is running with a closed throttle. But in most cases the mixture is to blame.

Helpful In Starting
Psychology seems to play a role in starting the engine in cold weather. One reason the strong man in the circus can lift so much dead weight is because he knows he can, but the car owner who fears that the engine will be reluctant to start is licked before he starts. What happens when constructive thinking is brought into the picture is that the operator presses the starter button more firmly. He doesn't just touch it and then pull his finger away as if something were going to backfire. Good contact is essential to an electrical circuit, and this can be a direct result of a belief that the engine is going to start regardless of the cold. With the right psychological slant on the subject the driver will also press down on the clutch pedal to relieve the starter motor of the job of turning over the transmission gears. He will press down twice on the accelerator pedal before cranking, and will remember to hold the throttle about one-third open while cranking.

If cranking is slow and there is no response he will not feel defeated but will wait for several minutes before trying again, confident that one the second effort the battery will have recovered sufficiently to give the motor a pasty spin.

Dry Side Safer
To a reader whose car is left standing in a puddle of water much of the time, because of the layout of the driveway, I want to say that while this will not directly damage the tires any water gets on the rims is apt to set up rusting which may prove troublesome. Also water may get into the brakes where it can do real harm, especially in freezing weather. There should be some way to prevent this kind of parking of the car.

May Find It Useful
While I do not recommend milling down the cylinder head in order to raise compression (because this weakens the head and may invite warpage) you may want to find the information that in the case of a typical eight-cylinder engine with a compression ratio of 6.5 to 1 a boost of 7 to 1 can be obtained by taking off about .030 inch of head stock. To get a compression ratio of 7.5 to 1 it would be necessary to mill off .065 inch.

Q. The engine of my car is very slow warming up, but the choke seems to be working normally. At least there is no popping back through the intake to indicate a too lean mixture. J. D. G.

A. This looks like a case of a stuck manifold heat control valve. The mixture just isn't being preheated.

Q. What would cause gears to jump out of mesh. My repairman has checked the shift locks and has made sure that the transmission is in line with the clutch and engine. Motor mounts have been replaced. There is no excessive looseness in the drive line. Wm. L. S.

A. Perhaps at this point it would be well to re-check to see if you mesh the gears properly. It is not unusual for drivers to fail to mesh the gears fully.

Q. I have been told to drive the car fast in low gear so that the engine will have a good workout. Do you recommend this procedure for sticky valves and a generally gummed up motor? M. N. F.

A. This isn't the right caper. A good run on the open road will help the motor, but I won't say that it will be a cure-all. Perhaps this job needs a manual cleaning, followed by use of tune-up oils, detergents or solvents. Valves probably need grinding.

Q. My car has taken to bobbing when I go over wavy roads. It is very soft but is difficult to handle. On rough roads it bangs quite a lot and hits hard. Springs seem to be in good condition. H. H. V.

A. You will find that some of the shock absorbers are not working, probably because they do not have fluid.

Q. When I am driving between 30 and 50 mph and start slowing down there is a whining noise which seems to be in the transmission. It disappears when the clutch pedal is pushed down to the floor. One of my friends says that this may be due to this speedometer drive gears. Do you agree? D. F. McB.

A. No. The speedometer gears would be operating whether the

KENNAN MAY BE RETIRED SOON, OFFICIALS SAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ambassador George F. Kennan may be permitted to retire instead of being given a new assignment, state department officials said.

Kennan, an expert on Russian affairs, is credited with authorship of the policy of containment of Soviet power—a policy which Secretary of State Dulles has criticized as inadequate.

Kennan, in turn, has been critical of a policy of liberation toward the Russian satellites, a favorite Dulles theme.

Kennan, after five months as ambassador to Moscow, was banned by the Reds last year after voicing criticism of the way foreigners are treated there.

He could be retired under legal provision requiring that a "chief of mission" be retired unless given a new assignment within three months after his services as chief of mission are ended.

Kennan, 49, has been in State Department employ since 1927.

Would Avoid War
The containment policy which he has been associated with usually expressed as one of avoiding war with Russia, but at the same time dealing firmly with her and seeking to prevent any further expansion of her dominion or ideological influence on other peoples. The basis of the policy was the expectation that if it were continued Russia would eventually come to co-operate with the U. S. and other Western countries or else experience an internal collapse.

Dulles has spoken for a more active emphasis on hope of liberation for the peoples subjugated by Russia. In a major speech Jan. 28 he rejected any policy based on the idea that war with Russia was inevitable and should be got over with quickly.

But he said the U. S. must have a positive policy to develop in Soviet-dominated nations "such a love and respect for freedom" that this feeling would lead them to resist being swallowed up by Russia "and perhaps in time the indignation will become so acute that it might be fatal."

Refuses To Tell Whether Communist

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Ohio State University physicist, now working on an Air Force project, refused to tell House investigators Friday whether he is or has been a member of the Communist party.

Byron T. Darling, 41, invoked the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution in declining to answer questions put by the House un-American Activities Committee.

The amendment says no one may be forced to give testimony against himself.

One question Darling refused to answer was whether he ever gave secret information to any Communist party members or agents.

Darling said the Air Force project on which he is working is a study of ozone molecules. He added that it is known as Project 381 and is not regarded as secret.

75 Prisoners Face Charges In Riot

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Alderman Edward D. Johnson prepared 113 warrants Friday and delivered them to Warden John W. Claudy for service on 75 convicts who took part in a riot in January at Western State Penitentiary.

Johnson said he issued the warrants on information filed by state police at the instance of Atty. Gen. Robert G. Woodside's office. The alderman said hearings for the prisoners will start next Wednesday at the prison.

The men are charged variously with assault and battery, prison breach, riot, arson and sodomy.

Q. There's a peculiar surging action of my car when driving in the speed range between 20 and 25 miles per hour. This happens with the car in high gear and not being fed much gas. Ignition has been carefully checked. A. L. L.

A. This is a carburetion condition. Have your dealer replace the present idle jet tubes. The new ones provide a slightly richer mixture which it needs under the particular driving conditions you mention.

Q. Since tightening some of the carburetor nuts the engine doesn't run well at all. What happened? T. H.

A. You probably distorted the aluminum throttle body.
